

Richard Quang-Anh Tran

Richard Quang-Anh Tran is Assistant Professor of Southeast Asian Studies at Ca'Foscari University of Venice.

He specializes in critical theory, cultural studies, the history and theory of gender, and nineteenth and twentieth century Vietnamese cultural history.

He has held postdoctoral fellowship and visiting positions at the National University of Singapore, the University of California, Los Angeles, and the Program in Critical Theory at Berkeley.

His book, Queer Vietnam: A History of Gender in the early Twentieth-Century, 1920-1945, is forthcoming with Stanford University Press.

He is an executive board member and treasurer of the Vietnam Studies Group of the Association for Asian Studies.

