Book Review Section

Russian scientific journal «Children’s Readings» (Detskie Chtenya) is looking for collaborators for the Book review section. Authors are supposed to write about the latest publications on children’s literature. The aim is to present and analyze new studies and trajectories in this field of research with particular attention to Russian children’s literature. Reviews of important studies dedicated to children’s literature of other countries are also welcomed.

The author can suggest a book to be reviewed or ask the board to indicate one or more books. It is also possible to propose a review of the latest conferences and major events dedicated to children’s literature. The reviews should be around 8,000-10,000 characters. The working languages are Russian and English.

For any further information please contact the editorial board: detskie.chtenia@gmail.com

«Children’s Readings» is a scholar-led and peer-reviewed academic journal, primarily dedicated to studies of children's literature and issues of children's reading. Our scope is interdisciplinary although our main focus is on texts for non-adults, we are also interested in publishing prominent work of anthropology of childhood and related research on the history, philology, and culture of childhood and adolescence in Russia and abroad. In addition to academic research, the journal provides a range of materials related to the field: book and conference reviews, practitioners' discussions, interviews with children's writers, etc.
