

Ca' Foscari
University of Venice

Department of Humanities

Since places are limited, please email olga.tribulato@unive.it to book

European Research Council
Established by the European Commission

The project "Purism in Antiquity: Theories of Language in Greek Atticist Lexica and their Legacy" has received funding from the European Research Council (ERC) under the European Union's Horizon 2020 programme (grant agreement no. 865817).

Third workshop of the ERC project
Purism in Antiquity: Theories of Language in Greek Atticist Lexica and their Legacy

'Αττικοί and 'Ελληνες: Atticism and koine between linguistic practice and grammatical theory

Wednesday 17 January 2024, 9.30–18.15

Sala Marino Berengo

Università Ca' Foscari Venezia

Dorsoduro 3246

9.30–10.00

Olga Tribulato (Università
Ca' Foscari Venezia – PURA)

Welcome and Introduction

Morning session

Chair: Albio Cesare Cassio
(Emeritus, Sapienza Università di Roma)

10–10.45

Luuk Huitink (Universiteit van Amsterdam), Xenophon and Polybius: Between stylistics and linguistic change

10.45–11.30

Gabriella Rubulotta (Università di Messina), Pollux and Xenophon, between Atticism and the koine

11.30–12.00

Break

12.00–12.45

Roberto Batisti (Università Ca' Foscari Venezia – PURA), *'All the letters should be pronounced':
Koine phonology and Atticist pronunciation*

Afternoon session

Chair: Andrea Massimo Cuomo
(Universiteit Gent)

15.00–15.45

Liana Tronci (Università per Stranieri di Siena), Grammarians' attitudes towards Biblical Greek verbal usages

15.45–16.30

Daniel Kölligan (Universität Würzburg), Greek magical texts and their contribution to the lexicography of Atticism

16.30–17.00

Break

17.00–17.45

Klaas Bentein (Universiteit Gent), Registerial hybridity in an Early Byzantine official archive: Making a case for historical diaglossia

Conclusions